Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 13 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and windy. Cloud thickening later, perhaps isolated snow showers.

Today:
A cold, frosty start.with brisk winds but also plenty of sunshine. Cloud will thicken from the west through the day, however hazy sunshine likely persisting along the coast. Dry for most, although the odd light snow shower also possible later. Maximum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloudy and windy, with a chance of brief snow showers. Temperatures not as low as recently, but still cold and frosty with icy stretches. Rain or sleet possible by dawn. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Sunday:
Cold, windy, with early sleet turning to rain as it spreads east. Further, heavier rain following later. Where rain falls onto frozen ground, icy conditions are expected. Less cold overnight. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Noticeably milder with a widespread thaw. Mostly dry but cloudy Monday, although some drizzle possible, mainly across hills. Windy Tuesday and Wednesday with some sunshine, but also rain at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.